Message from Ms Heron

The last couple of weeks have been filled with purpose, focus, and joyful Christmas celebrations.

Last week, many of our parents joined us for the Advent Mass at Holy Angels, where we came together as a school family. A number of our children read so beautifully and reverently, making it a truly special occasion.

We then welcomed the first of our much-anticipated nativity performances, with EYFS astounding the audience through their retelling of the Christmas story. Their wonderful singing and delightfully innocent portrayals of characters and animals made for a heart-warming and memorable show.

On the same day, children who attend the Rascals Drama workshops treated us to a trio of performances. This small but talented group showcased just how hard they have worked during their lunchtime sessions, delivering confident and enthusiastic singing and drama.

The KS1 nativity was equally memorable, not only for the excellent performances from all pupils but also for the fabulous inclusion of “Happy Christmas” in many different languages. The children sang with pride and delivered their lines with clarity—much to the delight of parents and grandparents, who were charmed by both their confidence and their beautiful, gappy smiles!

We must also recognise the tremendous work that takes place behind the scenes. Our teachers have shown great commitment, energy, and support in bringing these performances to life, and we are deeply grateful for their dedication. Mrs Green has been integral to all of these events and has truly surpassed herself this year. From nativities to choir performances, her leadership has been exceptional.

Our choir has taken their talents out into the community, singing seven beautiful Christmas songs at the Mercedes garage in Stockport and performing at St Margaret’s Church in Bowdon. As part of our work with the Edmund Rice Network to raise money for children in Sierra Leone, the choir also braved biblical weather conditions to perform outside Asda with remarkable fortitude and professionalism.

EYFS and KS1 thoroughly enjoyed their trip to the theatre on Friday morning to see The Enormous Crocodile. Their excitement continued into the afternoon with a whole-school Christmas movie session. The children happily tucked into their own selection box and drink while relaxing in front of a festive film.

Looking ahead, the children are eagerly anticipating Monday morning’s chocolate raffle. Thank you for the many generous donations—your support has made this a particularly exciting event!
